U's Students Team With National Group

VERMILLION – A group of business students at USD is teaming up with Operation Iraqi Children, an organization that sends school supplies to children in Iraq. Coyoteopoly will begin its drive on Saturday, April 8, at Trinity Lutheran Church. Students will go door to door collecting items.

Coyoteopoly is asking the Vermillion community for school kit donations, individual item donations or monetary donations. Each school kit will contain items such as a pair of scissors or a package of notebook paper.

Coyoteopoly is an interdisciplinary student service learning project that is composed of students from the School of Business at The U. Coyoteopoly has a history of community service that includes conducting food donation drives for the locl food pantry as well as collecting 898 pounds of goods for the 86th Combat Surgical Hospital in Iraq last spring.

For more information about OIC and the school kits, visit www.operationiraqichildren.org.
